Mrs. Aulman, of New York, Claims Share of Mississippi Property.

LENINGTON, Miss., March 19. (Spl.)

A suit has been filed in the federal court at Jackson, Miss., by M-s. Ann Watson Aulman, of New York city, against her father, Dr. J.R. Watson, and

The bill of complaint states that the mother of Mrs. Aulman inherited an undivided one-half interest in the property from her father. J. M. Stewart, who left two helts, her mother, Mrs. Alice C. Watson, first wife of Dr. J. R. Watson, and Mrs. Bettle Stanfield, first wife of the late J. E. Stanfield, that her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Stanfield, both died in 1882, and left surviving them their husbands, Drs. J. R. Watson and five children, and J. E. Stanfield and one child, and that Dr. J. R. Watson and his son, J. S. Watson, afterward acquired by purchase the half interest in the property formerly owned by Mrs. Bettle Stanfield from her heirs, and from heirs of J. E. Stanfield, and that Dr. J. R. Watson ow owns four-sevenths undivided interest in the plantation, and that Mrs. Aulman and her sisters and brothers own three-sevenths undivided interest.

The bill of complaint further sets

The bill of complaint further sets out that a suit is now pending in the chancery court of Holmes county, Miss., between Dr. J. R. Watson and a daughter of the late J. E. Stanfield by his second marriage, involving the sale and purchase of the one-tweifth interest of the daughter inherited from her father, J. E. Stanfield. The other owners of the plantation were not made parties to this suit as required by law, and the judge of the federal court has granted a restraining order against the parties to the chancery suit in Holmes county, until the rights and interests of all of the owners of the plantation are determined by the federal court.

Mrs. Aulman, the complainant, is represented by Messrs. Watkins & Watkins, of Jackson, Miss., and Dr. J. R. Watson and his four other children by his first marriage are represented by Messrs, Boothe & Pepper, of Lexington, and the daughter of J. E. Market Soars to New High Levels, But Bull Fever Subsides and Some Setback.

Friday Afternoon, March 19.

During the early part of the cotton market session today short covering and fresh buying were plentiful, the result being an advance of prices to higher levels than ever. The news influencing this was not particularly different from what it has been but seemed sufficient. this was not particularly different from what it has leen, but seemed sufficient to make it easy. The news from abroad was more optimistic, the Germans apparently getting back to something like their recent normal and Liverpool still teling better than due. Weather conditions in the beit were none too good, and the further rise in sterling rates stimulated widespread support. Highest marks were recorded early, May going to 35.43c and July 35.73c, while October sold well up toward 33 cents. The reaction that came later was probably due as much to technical reasons as to anything else, although some wires said anything else, although some wires said that a statement from Senator Lodge that there was no chance of the peace preaty being ratified was used as an excuse for it.

The weather map showed considerable rain in the upper Central and Eastern belt, with the Western belt without any, but with lower temperatures and promise of colder over night. It did not look good for new crop work and encouragement was lent to further buying of the new positions. However, sentiment continues to be so bullish that it takes little to induce fresh buying.

The strength displayed in the stock market was also a factor, for prices in that direction were higher and it seemed to be reflected in the attitude of traders in the cotton market. The foreign to be reflected in the attitude of trad-ers in the cotton market. The foreign exchange market was stronger and de-mand sterling started at $3.79, later sell-ing up to $3,82½. Advices said that domestic money conditions were also easier and indications were for mod-easier and indications were for moderate call rates during the ensuing week or so. All of this stimulated confidence in the market on the bull side, for nothing offers any hope of relief to the short interest in the old crop months.

Liverpool was somewhat irregular at the close, finishing steady at an advance of 13 to a decline of 15 points, far months being off some. Spots were marked up 18 points, fully middling to 29.80d, with sales 4.000 bales, including 3.100 American. Receipts reported cloths firm, but not active, and yarns quiet. Forwardings from Liverpool were again large, 34.000 bales American, while 11,000 bales were sold for export. In addition to the other news of bullin addition to the other news of bullish tenor traders were confident that the weekly statistics would show further reduction in the visible supply, which encouraged covering and discouraged turning loose of contracts. When May in New York sold at 38.43c and July at 35.72c more offerings were forthcoming and the reaction see in but and July at 35.72c more offerings were forthcoming and the reaction set in, but it did not get much speed until early in the afternoon. May dipped to 37.32c and July to 35.20c, but better support was given and it looked very much as if the large bulls had desired some kind of a check to the advance.

The estimate figures on takings by the spinners came lower than expected. The estimate figures on takings by the spinners came lower than expected, pointing to 193,000 for the week, compared with 123,000, which perhaps helped induce some of the profit taking. But Hester made the movement into sight only 150,000, against 155,000 last year, so the relative decrease in visible American was around 75,000 bales. Exorts for the day were only 9,140 bales, but for the week the total was about 122,000 bales.

But little news came from the spot department during the day, except a wire from New Orleans telling of the sale of a good line of California cotton there and Augusta's reported sale of 3,086 bales there yesterday.

Futures closed 4 points off to 27 up, tone barely steady.

New Orleans closed 25 points off to 40 up, tone steady. Spots were unchanged, middling at 41c, and sales were 3,463 bales.

In the local market sales for the day

In the local market sales for the day were 1,000 bales. Quotations were un-changed, middling at 40.50c. Week's sales in Memphis were 7,800 bales.
Estimated stock of cotton unsold in the hands of factors is 207,000 bales, compared with 251,000 last year and 136,000 in 1918. Linters in stock are 23,000 bales, compared with 59,000 last year and 82,000 in 1918.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The advance in sterling exchange seemed to fully offset lower Liverpool cables, and the cotton market here opened today firm at an advance of four to 22 points. There were two March notices issued, the first so far this month, and March sold at 40.25c at the start, or four points net lower, but railled to 40.33c on the season. The buying of later months was probably influenced by overnight, reports of an unusually good foreign demand in Eastern belt markets for this season and local trade interests were good buvers of May on the advance to 38.43c for that position, or 42 points net higher during the middle of the smorning, but at 38.43c for May and 32.46c for Cotober, there was more realizing. Reactions of 15 to 25 points followed, but the market became less active and later fluctuations were irregular with the tone holding steady around midday. It is said that one of the Italian shipping firms here resived a state who for the weather bureau department state that 40 foot stage will be

The market was easier during the middle of the afternoon under increased validing off to 27.82c, or 19 points net lower. New crop positions were relatively sleady, with October holding around 27.30c owing to unfavorable weather reports from the South.

Futures closed steady at decime of to advance of 27 points.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—Continged rains in the belt gave the cotton market an upward trend in the early trading today, and after the call the rise in the rate of sterling exchange was a strong bullish influence. Buyers found no great quantity of cotton for sale, and the short element was disposed to cover its commitments. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 12 to 38 points higher than the close of yesterday. May traded up to 38.12c.

Much realizing was met around the middle of the morning and it *caused reactions of from 10 to 29 points, but the market held steady on expectations of favorable week-end statistics and content of the strength of sterling exchange was helpful to the movement close sterling exchange was helpful to the movement close sterling exchange was helpful to the movement close sterling exchange was helpful to the movement contents. CHICAGO, March 19.—Caution on both sides of the market seemed to be governing traders in corn today to an unusual extent. Smallness of receipts and the unfavorable weather tended to prevent any radical sathacks. 149,512 10,200,093 155,732 9,147,422 200,312 10,274,070 one the universities weather tended to prevent any radical setbacks in price. Opening quotations, which varied from $2c decline to an equal gain, with May $1.50%, to $1.50% and July $1.49% to $1.50%, were followed by numerous minor fluctuations, but no decided change.

Subsequently, absence of shipping demand from the East, together with opinions that the advance in values had culminated led to a sharp break. The close was heavy, 3½c to 3½c net lower, with May $1,52½ to 3½c net lower, with May $1,52½ to $1,52½ and July $1,46½ to $1,46½.

Oats like corn showed no pronounced drift either way. After opening 3c off to ½c advance, including July at 72½c to 73½c, the market sagged a little and then scored slight gains. Provisions were stronger but dull. Most of the advance disappeared later when corn turned weak.

New York.—The exparts were not so bad for these times, $0,000 bales in two days. Germany is buying cotton, it seems in Dallas and elsewhere in Texas and paying for it in New York. Of Houston's stock of 21s,000 bales, some 60,000 bales have intely been reported sold to Germany.—Journal of Commerce.

New Orleans.—If; present price of March not attracting cotton to New York what show has May and July sharts at prevailing discounts?—Beer to McFall. Averpool hought July, Jans boug Sciober. - Cleve to Cotter & Turner. New York,-One notice issued, firsuedes so far on March.

New York.—Rain predicted for the Carolinas today, unfavorable. Near month congestion rules the market and higher prices took probable for May and July, but would be cautious about following the advance. A reaction is in order.—Clevenburg.

trage sales uneasy over our small stock expect their entire interest will event ually cover; large local traders and bull selling.—Hubbard to Reese.

New Orleans.—Advanced on rise in exchange and further rains central belt, urgent demand from shorts seem about supplied.—Ellis & Co. New Orleans.—The German news this morning is somewhat better, but reports from the Near East are not so favorable.

The New Orleans Cotton exchange will be closed April 2 and 3, Good Fyiday

New York—One Italian steamship line has received instructions from its European office not to accept any more shipments of cotton to Genea. It is thought in the trade there is sufficient quantity of cotton in Italy for the time being and they are trying to rectify the decline in exchange. Demand general this morning, but chiefly for old crop months. Little for sale—Jung to McFall.

Chicago, Ticker thinks some of the locals are working for a break. No serious cash corn demand at Chicago — Wild to S. & G. Chicago -Van Ness reports 70,000 corn and 100,000 oats cancelled by the East Chicago—Last selling in corn is on Corn Products Co. pulling out of the cash market. Peorla is 1 to 2 lower: St. Louis 1 to 3 cents lower—S. &. G. Chicago—The cash market is showing further weakness this morning. No. 2 white oats are selling at 95 cents, which is 5 cents lower than best price of yeaterday. This condition cause of little of selling in futures. Wou d not be surprised to see both corn and oats work lower before day is over.—Winters to Clark & Co.

New York—James S. Alexander, president National City Bank of Commerce, discussing future of American industry, said to a representative of Dow Jones: "It seems inevitable that readjustments in world conditions that must be worked out will bring a degree of recession to American business. Nevertheless, there are substantial reason for believing the United States well prepared for such transitorial developments if sound business leadership prevails

He reports that there is an improved attitude among steel workers and that strike features are eliminated. and that strike features are eliminated

New York—Foreign news is better.

Looks like a prospect of order in Germany. Here, the money market seems to be satisfactory. There is nothing particular to disturb the market unless an unfavorable construction be placed in Gorts now being made in Washington to devise a method of taxation to overcome government losses on account of the recent supreme court decision—
